Integrative Health Coaching at the Osher Clinical Center

What is Integrative Health Coaching (IHC)?

Integrative Health Coaching (IHC) helps motivate clients to initiate and maintain positive life changes to achieve their health and wellness goals. It is a collaborative, solution-focused process that concentrates on a client’s individual needs.

Who can benefit from Integrative Health Coaching?

Let’s face it, the demands on many of us can easily become overwhelming. I hear clients say “I have a hard enough time just getting through the day, never mind taking time to exercise, learn how to eat healthy and manage my stress”. Unfortunately, many people use all of their resources to “get through the day”, rather than get the most out of it.

Integrative Health Coaching works with clients to help with stress management and adaptation, goal setting to achieve health and optimal well being and developing strategies for living a more mindful life that effectively balances the demands of work, family and leisure.

Maybe you need help to simply structure your day or perhaps you would like to launch a new business and not lose focus on self-care. Meredith works with clients who are experiencing difficulties because of disorganization, stress or pain, and a variety of issues that disrupt work-life balance. Her practice encompasses a wide range of techniques to help optimize her clients ability to function and live a most fulfilling life.

What should I expect from an Integrative Health Coaching Session?

During the initial 60 minute IHC consultation, we’ll talk and assess your needs and set up a plan that includes timelines, long and short term goals and strategies for success. Follow up sessions are generally 30 minutes in length with homework on a daily/ weekly basis. We can work at your pace, and I will help guide you through achievable success benchmarks.

Meredith Beaton Starr, MS, OTR/L has been practicing Occupational Therapy for over 27 years in a number of inpatient and outpatient settings in the Boston area. She received both her undergraduate and graduate degrees in Occupational Therapy from Tufts University- Boston School of Occupational Therapy. Since earning her Master’s Degree in 1997, Meredith's clinical focus has been mind-body medicine and wellness. She has completed a clinical fellowship/certification in mind-body medicine and is trained in meditation, yoga and dance/movement therapy. She also has advanced training in Healthcare and Leadership Coaching. As an occupational therapist and integrative health coach, Meredith enjoys working with clients to help them optimize health, achieve balance in their lives and adopt healthy behaviors.

Meredith specializes in care for:

- “What keeps you up at night”
- General Wellness and Lifestyle Optimization
- Preparing for Surgery
- Stress Management
- Time Management
- Environmental Adaptation (including ergonomics) for injury prevention and treatment
- Injury Prevention and Education
How do I set up an appointment?
Please call the Osher Clinical Center at (617) 732-9700 to get more information about Integrative Health Coaching services or to set up an appointment with Meredith Beaton-Starr, MS, OT/L. The Center is located at the Brigham and Women’s Ambulatory Care Center in Chestnut Hill.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Session Rates</th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Initial Consultation</td>
<td>$120.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Follow-up Sessions</td>
<td>$60.00</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

What do you need to bring to your appointment?
- Completed Osher Clinical Center health history form
- A form of payment – we accept check, credit cards, health savings account cards

Will insurance pay for Integrative Health Coaching?
Insurance does not cover IHC. You may inquire with your medical / health savings account manager to see if Integrative Health Coaching is an applicable service.

Osher Clinical Center for Integrative Medicine
Brigham and Women’s Ambulatory Care Center
850 Boylston Street
Chestnut Hill, MA 02445
617-732-9700 | osher.hms.harvard.edu

Empowerment • Success • You